

East Austin Area Targeting Strategy

Area Overview

East Austin is one of Austin's most dynamic and culturally significant regions, experiencing rapid transformation while maintaining its diverse cultural identity. Historically home to Austin's African American and Latino communities, East Austin has undergone significant gentrification and development, creating a complex mix of longtime residents, new arrivals, renovated properties, and new construction.

The area includes neighborhoods like Holly, Cherrywood, Windsor Park, Govalle, and Montopolis, stretching from just east of I-35 to Austin's eastern city limits. East Austin attracts a diverse demographic including young professionals, artists, families, long-term residents, and investors drawn by the area's cultural authenticity, proximity to downtown, and relative affordability compared to Central and West Austin.
